

Introducing The New

Berg List Creator for Metastock Jim Berg and John Atkinson

This new tool, designed by Jim Berg, has recently been released for Metastock users.

Time management is an important part of trading & grouping stocks together in layouts and/or favorites saves time. Many investors want to use the 'MetaStock Explorer' to scan specific groups of securities, rather than the entire market.

Imagine you've just put together a list in an Excel spreadsheet or come across a handy watch-list of 'hot stocks' from a broker report, newsletter, magazine, website, or from one of your own scanning searches.

What do you do next to view the charts?

If you're like us, we used to go to Metastock and laboriously open each chart in turn and save them to our watch list folders.

Problem! Creating lists with more than a few securities is time consuming.

Opening a few charts is easy. Do it several times over for a long list of stocks and it becomes tediously repetitive and time consuming.

Solution!

Here's the good news – there is no more need for you to open up charts one at a time.

With the Berg List Creator for Metastock you can:

1. Copy your watch lists into Microsoft Notepad (already installed on many computers)
2. Import the list directly into Metastock
3. Use Metastock to open up all the charts at one time, automatically

This saves the user a lot of time – time you can use to analyse charts.

The Berg List Creator links with MetaStock and allows lists to be created from Microsoft 'NotePad' and takes only a short while to set up. When MetaStock & the Berg List Creator are 'linked', then lists can be created in a few minutes.

You can now create explorations lists and layouts from any list source that you can copy or write into MS Notepad. No list is too long.

After installation, the three easy steps are:

1. Produce Your List in MS Notepad and save it to a folder.
2. In Metastock Explorer, edit the Berg List Creator to point at your Notepad List
3. Run the Exploration

Lists can be created in Microsoft NotePad:

- ⇒ Manually
- ⇒ From Scanning Software
- ⇒ From Excel Spreadsheets
- ⇒ Downloaded from websites – newsletters, magazines, ASX, S&P

Example:

The following is an example of how to use the new Berg List Creator for Metastock.

Imagine you have a list of 47 stocks that you copied from a website and pasted into Microsoft Notepad.

Or maybe you wrote them down over several days when you read articles in a newsletter, magazine and newspaper.

You now want to put them into a layout and also run your favourite exploration on this list. Let's say you have called it 'ALERT LIST' and saved it in a folder called 'Watchlists'.

Our thanks to all the positive responses received to date including the latest this week:

" Dear Jim

I used to dread the end of the reporting season because it meant time to update my search lists on Metastock from Stock Doctor. It took days entering and checking the various classifications.

I just did the whole exercise in about an hour, thanks to your List Creator. The best $50 bucks I ever spent." Hal Osman, South Australia

The Investing & Online Trading Stock Market Newsletter

"I've stopped surfing the internet for answers to my trading problems because this Site and this newsletter are all you need to educate yourself on how to trade successfully and profitably..."

"I suppose it's a personal thing, but I remember reading your Newsletter for the first time. Going through the material felt like talking to a friend who is a successful trader explaining to me exactly what I need to do to learn how to trade successfully. I love the sheer simplicity of the letter, which teaches me step-by-step how to know:

- Which shares to trade
- When to enter the trade
- Where to place my stop losses
- When to get out of the trade

The two portfolios, short and long term, are easy to follow and I like the fact that you provide many updated examples. The articles written by your guests on psychology I find very interesting and your money management articles are essential...it just gels with me.

Thanks for your wonderful support, getting instant replies like I get from you are rare these days. I have seen all the newsletters available in the marketplace and have subscribed to some, however yours is the best. You have a top quality newsletter which is easy to read and study. I would thoroughly recommend it.

Yours Sincerely" Ian J Bourke
